Savage windstorm rips through county

In a scene repeated many times during the past few days, members of an Ontario Hydro work crew struggle with a tree as it leans on power lines. At this particular location, on the Bethel Church Road, a short caused by one of the fallen trees ignited a grass fire which was fanned by the strong winds.

A vicious wind storm ripped through the Haliburton Highlands Monday tearing up trees which blocked roads, downed power lines and caused extensive personal property damage.

The storm gathered in intensity Monday afternoon and reached its height at about 6 p.m. However, high winds continued to blow during the night knocking down trees which had been weakened by the gusts estimated at up to 100 kilometres per hour.

Cal Wilson, manager of the Minden office of Ontario Hydro, said the storm was one of the worst the utility had to recover from in the past five years. He said the impact of the high winds was equal to that experienced in January 1979, when a heavy fall of wet snow brought trees and branches crashing down on area power lines.

At the height of the storm virtually all of the county was without electrical power as falling trees shorted out power lines or caused them to snap. All of the sub-transmission lines in the county were affected by the high winds, resulting in a massive repair project for the Hydro crews based in Minden.

The widespread damage caused by the storm meant that Hydro crews had to concentrate on repairing the sub-transmission line before turning their attention to the feeder lines.

The county-wide power outage occurred around 4:30 p.m. Power was restored to Minden Village at about 8:30 p.m. Parts of Haliburton Village also received elecrical power Monday evening but other sections of the village had to do without until the next morning. In many rural areas power was not restored until sometime Tuesday.

14,800 without power

According to Mr. Wilson some 14,800 Hydro customers were affected by the power outage at the height of the storm. As of Tuesday at noon, 6,000 were still waiting to have power services reinstated.

"We have called in a helicopter to assist in locating the downed trees," Wilson said. "Also extra crews are being brought in from areas to the south and north of the county to assist in the repair work."

The Hydro spokesman said the repair work was slowed by the size of some of the trees swept down by the storm. He said the large trees often presented a difficult and dangerous removal chore.

"We expect to have everything back to normal by Wednesday," the Hydro spokesman commented, although he suggested that another flurry of repairs will likely be required in the next few weeks as cottagers visit the area to find their power lines are down.

Wilson said that Hydro crews worked late Monday evening attempting to restore as many customers as possible. "The crews were called in after they had been on the job for 16 to 18 hours," he commented. "It is difficult to work in the dark and there is greater danger posed by the leaning or fallen trees. The crews were back on the job early Tuesday morning after a few hours sleep."

He said that most residents were patient and understanding in their dealings with the Hydro office during the storm. He noted that in some cases power was available on one side of a rural road, while the other side remained in darkness. He explained this was a result of the grid patterns used in the delivery of electricity.

Wilson said the helicopter, which was in use Tuesday, helped to speed repairs. Many of the lines go across country and do not follow the roads, so it is often difficult to ascertain where fallen trees had affected the power service.

While the loss of electrical power was probably the greatest inconvenience experienced by Highlands residents, the storm left its mark in other ways.

Telephones out

Some telephone subscribers found that their phone service had been disrupted by the same trees which brought down hydro lines. According to Terry Bew, spokesman for Bell Canada, only 25 customers were without phone service as of Tuesday afternoon. He expected they would be back on line shortly.

Petting zoo suggested as possibility for Minden

The municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden was advised to proceed cautiously in the establishment of a wildlife park involving exotic animals.

That note of caution was offered by Wally Davidson, director of the Riverview Park and Zoo in Peterborough. He spoke to the members of council April 26.

Davidson, while cautioning the council on the advisability of establishing a facility for animals such as deer, monkeys and caged animals, was enthusiastic about the possibility of creating a natural wildlife duck and bird sanctuary and possibly a children's petting zoo in the community.

The park committee of council had been considering the idea of using the property south of the arena and east of the library-cultural centre complex for a wildlife park. He said the area in question was too wet for hooved animals.

Hoever, he noted that the area does have a natural spring and is well suited to the raising of water fowl. He suggested that a central area could be dredged to create a pond and that a boardwalk could be constructed which would give visitors a vantage point from which to observe the ducks, swans and geese that could be placed there, or attracted by the stocked birds.

Davidson also proposed that rather than becoming involved with a formal zoo involving cages or extensive fencing, the council consider opening a child's petting zoo using farm animals. He noted that this facility would be a major attraction, but would not commit the community to year-round maintenance or feed bills.

It was pointed out as well that with a farm animal petting zoo, the local veterinarian would be experienced in treating the animals, where special training may be required in dealing with more unusual species.

He said the animals could be dispersed to area farms or

The coming of spring makes us all think about getting outdoors to enjoy the sunshine, but we also recognize the necessity to begin field work. Farmers become anxious to start working in their fields but very often are delayed by late snows and spring rains. Such seems to be the case this year, but it won't be long until we can joyfully complain about the heat and lack of rain.

Watching modern farm equipment turn the prairies into agricultural miracles, it is easy to forget that this area was once the frontier, inhabited by Indians. About 13 miles northwest of Minden is Fort Kearny which serves as a reminder of our heritage.

As America expanded from east to west, the government recognized the need for military establishments for the protection of emigrants passing over the Oregon Trail, so in 1836 Congress passed an appropriation to provide for forts. In September of 1847 a Lieutenant Woodbury and 70 mounted volunteers set out to find a suitable site for a fort to be built on the Platte River.

Records show that in Woodbury's report to the War Department he said, "I have located the post opposite a group of wooded islands in the Platte River, seventeen miles from where the Oregon Trail turns off to the south from the Platte River." Thus the fort was in the direct path of the westward movement of wagons, leaving the Pawnee Indians to the east and the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians to the west.

Before the end of 1848 the fort consisted of an adobe storehouse and two sod buildings plus two temporary stables for 48 horses each. The original garrison at Fort Kearny was comprised of two companies of infantry and one of cavalry.

Development of the fort continued until there were 3 one-storey company quarters, a 16 ft. x 50 ft. mess hall, company kitchen, married soldiers quarters, commanding officers quarters with several out-buildings, officers quarters, four office buildings, guard house, hospital, storeroom, dispensary, bakery and a magazine described as conoidal, covered with several feet of earth.

A stockade was made of split ash logs, set in the ground and extending up 7 feet. A flag pole 70 feet high was set in the middle of the parade ground. Old records indicate that it had been shipped down the Mississippi River, then up the Missouri River to Leavenworth, and hauled from there to Fort Kearny by ox team.

The main duty of the soldiers at the fort was to aid and protect the emigrants travelling west. But in spite of the scattered army posts, many wagon trains were attacked by Indians and destroyed. The Indian trouble reached its peak in 1864. The raids began without warning that year and ranged from one end of Nebraska to the other. The attacks were by bands of Cheyenne, Sioux, Kiowas and Arapaho.

But after 1864 many developments made the continuance of the fort unnecessary. The Indians were receding, settlers were coming in greater numbers, the railroad was reaching west and Nebraska was granted statehood in 1867. So in May 1871, the War Department ordered that Fort Kearny be discontinued as a military post.

Although people seemed to recognize the historic value of the site, the buildings deteriorated and as time went on they completely disappeared. It was not until 1906 that an old soldiers' picnic was held on the grounds and a resolution was adopted to make a park out of the site of Fort Kearny.

It was not until 1922 that interest reached a point where a meeting was held in Minden and a group called "Fort Kearny Memorial Association" was organized. They conducted only routine business until May of 1928 when it was learned that the land comprising the site of the fort was to be sold at Referee Sale. The purchaser of the land agreed to sell the forty acre tract at the same price he paid which was $135.00 an acre.

Various American Legion Posts and Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts offered their assistance and it was not long before the stock certificates which had been put on sale, brought in the necessary $5,400 to buy the site of Foprt Kearny. It was decided to turn the area over to the state of Nebraska to be made a part of the State Park System to be maintained as a state historical and senic park and bird reserve.

Before any restoration could be started at the fort, the drought and depression of the 1930's and World War II in the early 1940's virtually ended all efforts. Then in 1946 the Fort Kearny Memorial Committee met with representatives of the National Park Service and the State Parks Commission at the site of the fort for the purpose of acquainting them with the possibilities for development of the area. As a result of this meeting, exploratory work was begun in 1947.

Plans were made for a Fort Kearny Centennial celebration to be held September 22, 1948. The event had wide newspaper and radio coverage and national recognition was gained due to the issuance of a commemorative stamp by the U.S. Post Office. During the centennial celebration program it was announced that Harold Warp, former Minden resident, had set up a $25,000 trust fund for the purpose of aiding in the restoration of the buildings of the fort and preserving the spot as a senic and historical landmark.

Conservative estimates indicate that more than 5,000 people attended the centennial celebration in 1948.

Enthusiasm has continued for the preservation of Fort Kearny. Today, well kept grounds greet visitors who come to view the slide show and visit the museum in the visitors center. The wooden stockade has been rebuilt, muich to the delight of both young and old visitors. Giant cottonwoods still outline the parade grounds.

The blacksmith shop is rebuilt as is the magazine earthworks on the original site.

A nearby sand pit area has been turned into a large camp ground with facilities for boating, fishing and swimming.

Thus, Fort Kearny, once the guardian of the pioneer, has become a monument to the soldiers who faced the dangers of the frontier to turn the American wilderness into the land we call home.

Gallery plans juried shows

In conjunction with the municipality's 125th anniversary celebrations and the province's bi-centennial, the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden is sponsoring three juried art shows. Details of the competitions were announced last week by gallery curator Grace Turton.

The three areas of competition include fine art, fabric and fibre, and pottery and ceramics. Each category will be divided into two areas of competition, one for residents of the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, and one for artists residing outside the townships.

The gallery will retain the best of each of the three shows in the municipal competition, to form the basis for an ongoing permanent collection.

Each category will be judged on separate dates, at which time the submissions will be on display at the gallery. The fine art show will be held August 3 to 8, with an entry deadline of July 25; the fabric and fibreshow is scheduled for August 24 to 28 with a July 10 deadline for entries; while the pottery and ceramic display will be held from October 5 to 10, with an entry deadline of August 5.

Total prize money for the three shows is $825, with $100 being awarded to the best entry in each category, $100 to the best entry submitted by a municipality resident and $75 to the best entry from outside the municipality. Ribbons will be awarded to other entries in various categories.

Registration forms are available from the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. For more information on the competitions contact the gallery at 286-3763.

Motors banned from creek

Beaver Creek will become the strict preserve of non-motorized boat traffic according to the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council. The council passed a resolution to that effect at a meeting April 26.

The suggestion was brought to the council table by Councillor Dave Stevens. He said the creek was a narrow winding waterway and that these conditions posed a threat to individuals in canoes when motorized boats used the waterway.

Stevens suggested that the formal declaration of the area as off limits to motorized vessels could be long and involved and he was simply seeking the council's approval in principle.

Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas said the "red tape" took too long to overcome and proposed that the council erect a sign at the entrance to the creek, indicating that motor boats were not allowed. He said the sign could be placed on a municipal road allowance.

The other members of council agreed with the need for the restriction and concurred with the deputy reeve when he said there were times when council should not allow "red tape" to stand in the way of action.

A resolution was endorsed to have the sign made and placed at the entrance to the creek.

Stuart Baker new director

After several months of investigations and interviews, Stuart Baker, the principal of Archie Stouffer Elementary School has been named to the position of Director of the Haliburton County Board of Education. The new director was selected on April 25 after the Board had interviewed the final five applicants.

Mr. Baker began his teaching career at the Scotch Line School in Minden in 1955. He has taught at the Lakeview School in Haliburton where he later became principal. He has also served as the vice-principal at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Looking ahead to his tenure as director, Mr. Baker foresees a number of challenges. He noted that "within the county the immediate challenge is to look at the recommendations of the CEDSS report to see which changesd report to see which changes can be made immediately and which changes can be implemented later." The CEDSS (Co-operative Evaluation and Development of School Systems) committee has been examining English and Mathematics instruction, the role of the teacher and principal and the role of the director of education.

"Provincially one of the greatest changes will be the inclusion of social programs in the school system," he said, adding "schools are places that are becoming more involved with social services."

He said this will necessitate more co-operation between the Ministries of Education, Health and Community and Social Services. He noted, "It will be a challenge to continue the calibre of education and include these social programs."

In commenting on the changes that have been recommended by the Ontario School Intermediate and Secondary Report he pointed out that the new program "will put a considerable workload on the principals and the teachers especially during the first few years. I would ask that the public support the changes."

Stuart Baker, the new Director of Education for the Haliburton County Board of Education.

sold at the end of the season, relieving the municipality of maintaining them through the winter months. Davidson said the petting zoo portion of the facility he manages in Peterborough has proven to be one of the major attractions.

He pointed out that establishing a major zoo immediately involves large cash outlays for fencing, feed and animal care, as well as the purchase of the livestock. He noted that there has been a 25% reduction in the number of zoos in North America, a fact he traced to increased costs and greater demands being placed on the facilities for improved animal housing by activist organizations.

The Peterborough spokesman also suggested that the municipality investigate the possibility of building a creative playground in the area as an additional attraction. He said the playground at Riverview Park in Peterborough is one of the most heavily used in the community.

"You have an ideal location here for a water fowl development area, a petting zoo and a playground," he told the members of council.

During his presentation to the councillors, Davidson showed a number of slides depicting the problems and solutions experienced at the Peterborough facility. He noted that his operation is based on a $300,000 annual budget. All the funds are raised from a 7% surcharge on the city's water bills as well as donations from businesses, service clubs and individuals in the community.

Be fair to all

The payment of committee members for attending meetings, as proposed in a bylaw expected to be presented at the May 10 Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council meeting (see story on page 10) raises a number of questions.

Payment of an honorarium for the non-municipal staff members of the Planning Advisory Committee was suggested by Deputy-Reeve Ed Pergolas. He pointed out that the members generally meet during the day, when some could be attending to their personal business concerns and that the agendas are often lengthy. He has suggested that an amount similar to that paid to committee of adjustment members, $25 per meeting, would be adequate.

Reeve Lyle McKnight raises a valid point when he suggests that other municipally appointed committees might also request some form of compensation if the council sets a precedent in this case.

Simply because members of the recreation committee or the library committee or the cemetery board or any of the numerous other appointed committees choose to hold their meetings at night does not make their contribution to the community any less valuable. Indeed, members of these committees sacrifice equally important family and leisure time to provide a service to the municipality. And, as most committee members will concur, the time spent in a formal meeting is usually just a fraction of the time spent on business for the committee.

All those citizens who have offered their time and expertise have done so voluntarily. There was no offer of remuneration when they were approached to serve and they willingly stepped forward.

It strikes us as somewhat unfair to provide monetary reward for one group of committee members while others who are just as dedicated and hard working are excluded.

We believe the question the council consider next week should not be whether one group of committee members will receive financial compensation for their efforts, rather whether a system of remuneration should be established for all volunteers who serve the municipality on committees.

Youth need help

- by Bill Scott, MP -

In the Throne Speech last December, the government finally recognized that youth unemployment is a real problem in our society. They allocated $1 billion to a Youth Opportunity Fund to assist young Canadians to acquire new skills and in finding jobs in the private, voluntary and public sectors. In the February 15th budget, they added another $150 million to this program.

Why was this necessary? Well, despite spending by all government levels of approximately $11.5 million per day on reducing youth unemployment, rate for those aged 15 to 24 has been slightly over 18.5% for some time now. This group now comprises about 37% of the unemployed in Canada, although they represent only about one quarter of the population.

In fact, if you consider those who have given up looking for jobs because there is no work available, and this is quite common in Victoria - Haliburton, youth employment makes up over 40% of Canada's unemployed. This high rate of youth unemployment persists despite the fact that in January, 1984 there were 80,000 fewer people in the 15 to 24 age group than there were in January, 1983, and it is expected to drop another 90,000 by January, 1985.

Until our economy fully recovers, extra measures must be taken by this government to face the critical challenge of youth unemployment. Some suggestions in this direction are as follows:

- Create employment tax credits to encourage youth employment.
- Put greater emphasis on training and retraining programs for youth.
- Make greater use of the Career Access and Apprenticeship Programs.
- Make better use of UIC funds to develop long-term employment.
- Improve the services and counselling ability available at Canada Employment Centres.
- Consult with the provinces on better methods of delivery of retraining programs.
- Encourage community - based entrepreneurial development to assist youth and others wishing to start new businesses in economically depressed regions.

Retraining

"Aid to Workers in Declining Industries", a study commissioned by the Ontario Economic Council which was released on April 23, recognizes that retraining is just as important for all workers. The study suggested that governments at all levels should put more emphasis on retraining displaced workers than continually propping up businesses with no hope of ever becoming successful. The recommendations of the study, if implemented, would provide:

1. Increased aid to relocate workers that would cover all moving expenses, including capital losses from the sale of a home in a single-industry town.

2. Government loans that would be similar to student

Stories of research on animal intelligence have always caught my attention. Part of the reason is that the experiments conducted often border on the bizarre. It's not hard to imagine Dr. Frankenstein at work. And there's no doubt that laboratory animals are sometimes abused in the process.

But I suspect what really keeps me reading, with endless fascination, is the deeply ingrained notion that some unbreachable gulf separates human intelligence and ingenuity from animal instinct and blind habit.

Relentlessly, almost species by species, my naive prejudice has been forced to give way to the simple truth. The latest blow involves pigeons.

I'm mindful of the illustrious history of carrier pigeons of course. But their legendary feats have always been overshadowed in my experience, by the undistinguished behaviour of their common barnyard relatives, and more brazen attitude of those massive flocks frequenting the world's tourist meccas.

Now I see from a recent issue of Nature magazine that these birds, with a brain no larger than my thumb nail, have proven capable of solving truly complex problems.

The experiment was elegant in its simplicity. It involved only three items in addition to Robert Epstein and his coterie of Harvard University Researchers: a banana, a box and a pigeon. Adapting the design from tests many years ago involving chimpanzees, the scientists placed a pigeon inside a closed compartment containing only a banana, suspended out of reach, and a box some distance away.

Incredible though it may seem, the pigeon, after examining the situation for some time, went over to the box, pushed it under the banana, climbed on to it and took a bite of the banana.

Now don't get hung up by the fact the pigeon was attracted to a banana, although that does seem a little odd at first glance. This episode cannot be explained away as the abberant action of an unusual bird. Several pigeons were in fact seen to perform this feat, all of which had been individually taught beforehand to push boxes, climb on them and to bite bananas.

The point is, that each action was taught separately, so that the birds had to put them all together, on their own, to sucessfully complete the test.

Of course this isn't the first sign of intelligence in birds. Various species have

Historical society seeks county support

An open letter to the residents of Haliburton County:

As the newly selected chairman of the Board of Directors of the Haliburton County Historical Society, I would like to ask for your support. We need you -- the whole county does.

The first major purpose of the society is to agree upon a new site where the world class canoe display can be more permanently and adequately housed. I have recently spent an evening with Dr. Kirk Wipper, the canoe collection's founder and present guiding spirit. He agreed that even before negotiations can begin, all of Haliburton County should get behind one location and then locate is as best as possible.

It is with this in mind that the Board of Directors of the Haliburton Historical Society would like to throw out a challenge to all of the county's municipalities, service clubs, groups or concerned individuals to present in writing a detailed proposal on where, if possible, the best future location of a proper museum should be, to house, maintain and display the canoes. All proposals should be mailed to Frank Wallace. Haliburton County Historical Society, c/o Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, P.O. Box 390, Haliburton, Ontario, KOM 1S0 by Monday, May 14, 1984. It is the Board's hope to select the best site from the received applications and on June 1st, 1984, make the decision public in a detailed report.

The criteria for picking the best site will include the following: The site should:

1) be centrally located to provide access to the maximum number of people from all directions, vacationing, passing through and living in the county:

2) be of economical benefit to the greatest number of people in our county:

3) have a favourable environment and be low in cost; and

4) be favourable to Dr. Wipper.

The Board feels that it has to move quickly for a variety of reasons. Among them, Dr. Wipper is not just considering Haliburton County alone as a future site of the canoes. Already Ottawa, Toronto, Peterborough, Port Hope, Niagara Falls, Lindsay and Brantford have expressed an interest in being the site of the future canoe museum.

We quickly have to establish momentum and countywide support.

If we can be successful at selecting and uniting behind a site countywide, it is the Board's feeling that we can in conjunction with Dr. Wipper and his Board of Management and provincial and federal civil servants and politicians, successfully assist in getting an appropriate museum built here in our county. Already moves are being made to establish contact with the appropriate people by the Board.

If all goes well the Board intends to make a presentation to County Council on May 16 asking for its support for the Board's site selection, overall general plan and for some financial assistance to offset some individual Board members' communication and transportation expenses and to help offset future operating costs of the new museum on an annual basis.

In the interval, our Board members are willing, when possible, to meet and talk to community groups interested in knowing more about the project and who might want to possibly help us.

Based on my discussions with Dr. Wipper and his statements made in the past to the effect that he would like to see the museum stay in Haliburton County, the Board feels that we have a good shot at being the one main centre for the collection as opposed to our more larger neighbours throughout Ontario.

Excerpts from the report from the Haliburton County Citizens for the Kanawa Canoe Museum, July 1982, adequately outline the overwhelming benefits that would come from keeping the Canoe Museum in Haliburton County.

1) With the Canoe Museum, the Haliburton Highlands provide the largest concentration of canoe routes and opportunities on the Canadian Shield within easy driving distance of Ontario's major metropolitan areas. Canoe enthusiasts will flock to the museum.

2) The large number of children's camps in the area teach canoeing as part of their programs and could use the museum as a resource centre.

3) Schools in Haliburton County and beyond would make use of the museum as a resource centre.

4) A number of local residents are knowledgeable in canoe construction and could be an important resource base for the museum to draw on.

5) Lacking a strong industrial base, the local economy is dependent on tourism. It would greatly benefit from a showcase attraction (with the right promotion) such as a world class museum containing outstanding canoes from throughout Canada and around the world.

The Board is seriously concerned that this area, which is in desperate need of attractions, can not afford to lose such an important drawing card. Developed to its fullest potential in Haliburton County, the Kanawa International Canoe Museum could be the key to the future economic viability of the county.

If you would like to have a say in keeping this magnificent collection in Haliburton County and providing input on how it might be set up, we would appreciate your support. Come on our and join the Haliburton County Historical Society. Our next meeting will be held on May 24 and the location announced in the press. Membership fees are $12.00 a year, and may be mailed to Godfrey Tyler, c/o Frank Wallace, Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, P.O.Box 390, Haliburton, Ontario KOM 1S0.

It is not too late. We need you -- the whole county does. Let's do it together.

Frank Wallace, Chairman, Haliburton County Historical Society.

They are relatively new in the sled racing circuit, however in the past six years they have kept upgrading the breeding and training.

On January 7 and 8 1984, they placed second in the unlimited class at Bourget, Ontario. This race was 24 miles over two days. Placing second in this race proved to the Lougheeds that their efforts are paying off and they feel this is a start of many good things to come.

Sled dog racing can be a great spectator sport for the whole family and is growing in popularity in Ontario and Quebec. Haliburton Highlands is an ideal location for dog racing.

Valerie Lougheed would be happy to discuss dog sled racing with interested groups, with the thought in mind of establishing a race in Haliburton County.

In addition to training and participating in dog sled racing, the Lougheeds run a boarding kennel with seven runs. If you are looking for a good place to leave your dog while you go away on vacation, phone the Lougheeds at 286-1119.

The Haliburton Highlands Hospitality Training Centre is our second new member this week.

The Hospitality TRaining Centre is an unique and interesting concept in training. It is the only program in existence that trains employees for entry level positions in the hospitality industry. The program is 18 weeks in length and is comprised of life skills, hands on training and placement.

Rebecca Parkes is managing director and oversees the administration of the program as well as teaching the life skills.

Patricia Burns is technical instructor, she teaches bartending and cooking as well as housekeeping.

Karen Pockett is office administrator, she handles the clerical duties at the Training Centre, but also does the bookkeeping and budgeting for the project.

The newest addition to the team is Scott Hammond. Scott teaches waitress-waitering as well as sharing the cooking instruction with Pat Burns.

There are 12 students presently enrolled at the Hospitality Training Centre. Previous experience is not a prerequisite; however a sincere and keen interest to work in the hospitality industry is.

Dray Bonyun is pursuing a career in waitering. He spent the first six years in South Carolina before moving to Haliburton.

Leslie Daniel is from Orillia and taking the waitressing course.

Susan Davis lives in the Carnarvon area and is enrolled in the waitressing course.

Dan Hayes is presently living in Haliburton and taking the kitchen helper course.

Greg Kennedy lives in Haliburton Village and is taking the bartending course.

James Lawr lives in the Stanhope area and is taking the kitchen helper course.

Karen Upton has lived all her life in the Haliburton area and is taking the waitressing program.

Marianne Lindsay is living just outside West Guilford and is enrolled in the waitressing program.

Erin McGuire is living in the Haliburton area and is taking the waitressing course.

Hans Pripp has lived all his life in the Haliburton area. He is learning the cooking portion of the program in hopes of obtaining a full-time job he will enjoy.

Linda Roberts is living in the Township of Stanhope and is pursuing a career in the bartending aspect of the program.

Jane Smith is originally from Pickering and presently living in Haliburton and enrolled in the bartending course.

Convention coming

Another big convention is coming to the Highlands this weekend. Over 600 Lions have registered so far. You can plan to welcome them at a monstrous parade Saturday morning at 10 a.m. in the village of Haliburton.

On stage

"You Can't Take it with You" is being presented by the Highlands Little Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 10, 11, and 12 at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School at 8:00 p.m. sharp. This is their tenth production and all profits are being donated to Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

Forest Week program planned

National Forest Week is scheduled each year during the first full week in May. Its primary objective is to focus attention on the importance of managing Canada's forests wisely for present as well as future needs.

The 1984 theme is "Tomorrow's Forests... - Today's Challenge". The Ministry of Natural Resources will be observing National Forest Week through special activities to be held in each of its 47 Districts throughout the province.

Minden District has made plans to have a "Field Day" on Saturday, May 12 at the Somerville Tract of the Victoria County Agreement Forest to observe the occasion.

Walking trails have been established through pine plantations and natural hardwood stands - these areas provide a representation of the "new forest", as well as some interesting "food for thought" concerning its potential benefits.

Visitors will be provided with a pamphlet which will enable a self guided tour ... at a self guided pace. The pamphlet will provide information on various points of interest which are identified along the trails, and it is available upon request from the Minden District Office for people who wish to walk these trails earlier in the week. But on Saturday, May 12, our staff will be positioned at various points on the trails to give information on such subjects as tree identification, silviculture, wood measurement, chain saw safety, and forest inventory. We plan as well to have a demonstration of a fire pump in operation.

Picnic tables will be available near the parking area; free coffee and doughnuts will be provided (while supply lasts).

The activities May 12 begin at 11 a.m.

The site of the field day can be reached by following the signs starting on Highway 503, between Norland and Kinmount or off Highway 121, south of Kinmount.

3. Increased living allowances for laid-off workers studying at institutions.

4. A sliding scale of wage subsidies that would rise during a recession to encourage firms to keep their trainees on staff.

These proposals would, I believe, be of great assistance to those in the 15 to 24 age bracket, as they are generally the first affected by layoffs and least able to afford training or re-training programs. It is up to the federal government to show that is has a real interest in this problem by implementing the recommendations it now has at its disposal.

Storm damages property across county

He noted that the hydro lines, which are placed higher on the poles, take the brunt of abuse from falling trees and branches. Bew also pointed out that telephone lines are usually held in place with a steel cable which can withstand greater pressure.

Municipal and county road personnel were kept busy Monday cutting trees which had fallen across area roadways. A large portion of the blockages had been cleared away by late Monday night.

Workmen with the Ministry of Transportation and Communications faced similar problems as trees came crashing down on or near highways. In several cases the high winds ripped directional signs from their posts on the side of the road and sent them flying. The damage to MTC property was limited.

The Ontario Provincial Police were kept busy answering calls related to downed trees and power outages, but a spokesman for the local detachment explained that these problems were outside their area of conern. There were no accidents or injuries reported to the OPP which could be traced to the high winds.

In various areas of the county, private property suffered at the hands of the storm. Roofing material was torn from some structures, television towers twisted by the force of the winds and tree branches came down on structures. Some signs were overturned or damaged and in one case, awnings were pulled loose from the front of a Minden Village business.

A large tree next to the county building in Minden was snapped at the 20 foot mark. It has come to rest beside the office and a nearby home, supported by a second tree on which it fell. The precariously perched tree will provide an interesting challenge for the workmen who are called to remove it.

Late Monday evening concern was raised over a wall of windows at the music room in the Haliburton High Secondary School. The force of the wind caused the windows to bow inward. A hastily constructed brace was set in place to ease the strain on the windows. The high school also sustained some damage to its roof when materials were sent flying by the high winds.

A weather station operated at the high school by Geography teacher Carl Wallace recorded gusts of wind up to 85 km/h before the school closed at 4:30 p.m.

Since there are many areas of the county which are not regularly visited at this time of the year, it could be several weeks before all the damage caused by the wind storm is finally known.

Larry Kent of the Haliburton County Roads department clears branches from a fallen tree on the Deep Bay Road Monday afternoon.

A taut Bell Telephone cable gingerly supports a downed tree on the Bethel Church Road. The weight of the evergreen had already snapped the hydro lines on the same pole holding the telephone cable.

The top section of a large spruce tree found itself perched precariously in the branches of a soft maple on Newcastle Street next to the County building. The tree was one of many arboreal victims of Monday's windstorm.

The band will be performing for the public at the Archie Stouffer gymnasium on May 17. Students from grades 6 & 7 will also be taking part in the Music Night.

But not many people know how much it takes to be a soldier in the Salvation Army. The inhuman hours. The incredible patience. The brutal situations.

Taking responsibility for those whom society is unable to take responsibility for.

Providing help, and then hope, for the people who need it most.

Trailer flips: spills load of ties

A number of single vehicle accidents were investigated by the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police during the past week.

The first occurred Thursday evening on South Water Street in Minden. A car, driven by David Watts, 22, of Scarborough went out of control when the driver swerved. The vehicle rolled over causing $5000 damage.

Watts has been charged with impaired driving. The investigating officer was Constable Bob Pearson.

Trailer overturns

Damage was estimated at $3000 when a trailer load of railway ties became separated from the cab of the vehicle. The trailer flipped into the ditch when the fifth wheel of the vehicle broke off.

The mishap occurred Saturday morning on Highway 35, just north of the Twelve Mile Lake bridge.

James Forsyth, 32, of Mount Albert, was the driver of the vehicle.

The incident was investigated by Constable Paul Shaughnessy.

Driver charged

A charge of careless driving has been laid against a Keswick man after the car he was driving left Highway 118 west of Haliburton early Sunday morning.

The 1977 model Dodge left the road, struck a culvert and came to rest on a nearby lawn. The vehicle sustained $2000 damage.

The driver, 29 year old Alan Fagg, will face the careless driving charge. The matter was investigated by Constable Boyd Jarvis.

121 accident

Two westbound vehicles collided on Highway 121 near Haliburton Wednesday afternoon resulting in $2200 damage.

Paul Brohm, 37, of Dysart Township was allegedly slowing his vehicle to make a turn when it was struck by a car driven by 73 year old Albert Princis of Scarborough.

Brohm has been charged with failing to signal a turn.

The investigating officer was Constable Brian Dunham.

$4000 damage

Two vehicles involved in an accident on Highway 35 Sunday morning sustained a total of $4000 in damages. Both vehicles were southbound when the mishap occurred.

Joseph Horsely, 68, of R. R. 2 Minden was the driver of one car while the second was driven by Sergio Cecchetto, 36, of Whitby.

Horsely has been charged with failing to signal a turn while Cecchetto faces a charge of failing to have a licence on his trailer.

The incident was investigated by Constable Paul Shaughnessy.

Constable Paul Shaughnessy and truck driver James Forsyth examine the overturned trailer and scattered railway ties at the edge of Highway 35 north of Minden. The trailer became separated from the tractor which can be seen in the background at the top of the hill. Damage was estimated at $3000.

Sports dental injuries on increase

Who would ever have thought of baseball and softball as sports causing dental injuries?

Statistics released recently by the District Health Unit, however indicate that baseball and softball are second only to hockey in causing sports dental injuries.

Dueing the past three years in this district baseball and softball have been implicated in close to 20% of sports dental injuries.

These statistics are estimations based on the school accident insurance claims experience for four Boards of Education in this part of Ontario and relates to elementary and secondary school students.

The message from these figures is clear: "custom made intra oral mouthguards should be a routine part of every ball player's equipment!"

The District Health Unit has made over 6000 mouthguards since the initiation of its Mouthguard Project in 1971. Most of these have been fitted at High School Mouthguard Clinics held each September.

However, a continuing mouthguard service is available to students and adults in the community from the Health Unit offices in Cobourg (416) 372-0175 and Lindsay (705) 324-3569 as a public service, custom made mouthguards are provided at $6.00.

Festival of Fun a hit

On Saturday evening a group of entertainers and their audience had a lot of fun for a serious cause. The occasion was the eighth annual Festival of Fun held at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Proceeds from the event were donated to the Haliburton County Chapter of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. The program featured thirteen different acts including a jazz band, barbershop quartet, and highland dancers.

Piano, trumpet and vocal solos and duets rounded out the program which both amused and entertained the near capacity audience.

The photo s on this page feature the saxaphone section of the HHSS jazz band and the melodic stylings of a barbershop quartet consisting of Rick Vaughan, Glen Carter, John Miller and Ken Hadley.

Council will consider pay for committee

A bylaw which would allow the payment of a $25 per meeting honorarium to non staff members of the municipal planning advisory committee will be introduced at the next meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council. The matter was discussed at the April 26 council meeting.

Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas suggested the payment, pointing out that members of the committee are involved in their own businesses in the community. He noted the committee often meets during the day, and the meetings are having an impact on their income. He pointed out that the committee often has a lengthy agenda.

The planning advisory committee was established last year to assist council in assessing severance applications and other planning matters. Many of the matters which used to be considered last year to assist council in assessing severance applications and other planning matters. Many of the matters which used to be considered by the council at a regular meeting are now dealt with by the committee, with Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas reporting the recommendations to the council. The committee can only recommend action, with the council providing final approval.

Reeve Lyle McKnight said he was concerned that offering payment to one committee may result in what he called a "snowball effect" in which other committees will request similar compensation.

Councillor Gary Kenney also expressed reservation about paying the committee, although he commented, "If there is one committee which deserves to be paid for its services, it is the planning advisory committee". He suggested that before any payment scheme is approved that the council should be made aware of the reasons why one committee should receive payment and others do not.

According to the terms discussed at the April 26 meeting, the payment would be made to all members of the committee, excluding municipal staff, at a rate of $25 per regular monthly day meeting. The amount is similar to that received by members of the committee of adjustment. The payment scheme would be retroactive to January 1, 1984.

Members of the committee include: Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas, Councillor Pat Burk, clerk-treasurer Elinor Burke, municipal bylaw enforcement officer Dick Schell, and citizens Morgan Loucks, Dean Elliott and Don Hall.

The bylaw is expected to be ready for discussion at the May 10 meeting of the municipal council.

Changes will save curlers' taxes

A committee appointed by municipal council will take over control of the curling rink in Minden to relieve the club of a $6000 municipal tax bill. Agreement on the committee was reached at an April 26 meeting when club representative Jack Jackson appeared before the Anson, Hindon and Minden council.

A bylaw outlining the terms for the committee is to be prepared for the next council meeting.

Jackson asked the meeting to appoint a committee, which would include a large number of curling club executive members as well as council appointees.

The club spokesman pointed out that while the club members have an ongoing interest in the future of the building, it was built as a co operative venture of the community and club. He also noted that the building is situated on municipal property.

Jackson asked that the bylaw contain reference to the monetary and labour donation component made by club members during the construction of the building.

Rotarians Don Burch, left, Garth Gammon, right and a young wheel-polishing assistant sloshed their way through another wash during the club's fund raising effort Saturday. The event, held in conjunction with the Tahnkfull Tankfull campaign, sponsored by Imperial Oil, was held at the John Bath Esso station in Minden. Funds raised will be used to support the work of Easter Seals.

Students from throughout the county gathered Thursday at Haliburton Senior Elementary School for a special performance of the "Trampchamps". Durango Coy, manager and coach, is caught in mid air during the afternoon performance. The professional trampolinists provided an interesting, entertaining and humourous show for the enthusiastic audience.

Curling rink management changes

He estimated the contribution at about one-third the $360,000 cost.

He suggested that the bylaw should contain a provision which would allow the club to obtain their share of the investment if for some reason the building is sold or put to other use.

Reeve Lyle McKnight agreed with this suggestion, pointing out that it would protect the investment of those who assisted with the construction of the building.

According to the club spokesman, the organization continues to pay off the outstanding construction loan. The amount left is $33,000. The loan has been guaranteed by the municipality.

Under the terms of the bylaw, the special committee would be responsible for the large-scale operation of the building, while the curling club executive would manage the day-to-day operation of the facility. This arrangement would allow the building to be identified as a municipal building, rather than a private club, and therefore it would no longer be assessed for municipal taxes.

Little Theatre prepares for tenth production

On May 10, 11 and 12, the Highlands Little Theatre is pleased to present Moss Hart's and George S. Kaufman's scatty comedy "You Can't Take it with You".

This production, directed by Maureen O'Hara and held at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, is set around the Sycamore family, who seem mad, but it is not long before we realise that if they are mad the rest of the world is madder. Hard as that may be to believe, though when we learn of some of the strange activities of various members of the household - manufacturing fireworks in the basement, running a printing press in the parlor or even Granpa's interview with the tax collector when he states he doesn't believe in tax and therefore won't pay.

We've not yet mentioned the maid Rheba and her friend Donald; Essie the would-be ballerina; an inebriated actress and a Russian Grand Duchess who works as a waitress. When the 'G-Men' arrive you can be sure that it's only the beginning of the confusion.

As this is our tenth production, we want to make it extra special. All profits from the show will be donated to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

HHSS students test abilities at annual

Students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School strained and panted Thursday as they took part in the annual track and field meet. A series of competitions in three age levels were staged on the field beside the school.

Champion athletes in each of the divisions were selected based on the number of points they amassed during the competition.

In the midget boys division, John Vanderhorst was named champion with Gord Wood the runner-up. Vanderhorst received 25 points to Wood's 18.

Lindsey Tashlin was the midget girls champion with a score of 25 points. Runner-up was Lesley Tashlin with 23 points.

The Junior Boys champion was Kevin Smith. No point total or the name of the runner up is available.

In the senior boys division, Steve Smith captured the championship with 18 points. He was followed closely by runner-up Paul Vuksic who garnered 17 points.

Marla MacNaull was the senior girls champion with 20 points. The name of the runner-up is unavailable.

The winners of the Thursday competition will advance to the district competitions slated for this Thursday at the high school.

Ed Pritchard has every reason to smile as he holds up a 6 pound lake trout. The Minden resident landed the fish at the mouth of the Gull River on Wednesday. Mr. Pritchard used a Rapala lure to bag this beauty.

Home Services marks 4th anniversary

by Marie Wallace

180 people attended the fourth anniversary celebration of our organization which included a 'welcome home to our Snowbird volunteers' and National Volunteers' Week.

The PineStone Inn baked a beautiful anniversary cake and hosted our delicious noon luncheon.

Mary Hadley brought us an up-date on the Senior County Drop-In Centre which will have its official opening in June, and Bruce Henry gave the run-down on senior games. If you are interested in getting involved in the games, please call Anna Nichol at 457-2171 for more information.

All the volunteers in the following programs were honoured: Meals on Wheels, Wheels to Meals, Transportation, Friendly Visiting, Fone-a-Friend, Exercise and Swim, Office assistance, Newsletter and Art in the Hall.

Bambi Gilder, our Information Centre Manager, reminded us that the information services is for residents of all ages and is free and confidential. A booklet on pioneer days of Haliburton County is being prepared as a Bicentennial project.

Doris McCann, our guest speaker, spoke on the development of our organization, the success of the present programs and the future direction of services for the elderly. Doris is impressed with the caring volunteers in our County.

Our thanks to the musicians for the lively music, Mr. and Mrs. Al Smith, Mrs. Thelma Watson, Sinclair Russell, Harold Brodhagen, and Sonny Pacey. Thanks to Vi Smith for getting everyone involved in Euchre and Bridge.

Each time we hold these functions and workshops we meet new friends and volunteers - without volunteers Home Support would cease.

The Haliburton Home Support Services organization has evolved into a "model of rural support service" according to Doris McCann, past chairman and guest speaker at the 4th anniversary celebration. Mrs. McCann played an important role in establishing the organization. After retiring from a nursing career in Toronto she returned to the Highlands and soon realized that there was a lack of social services for seniors and disabled persons in this area and that "rural services were the forgotten stepchild."

Consequently she began recruiting volunteers and with financial assistance from the Ministry of Community and Social Services the home support service was begun. The effectiveness of the service has been recognized in other areas of the province and several delegations have approached the local executive for assitance in setting up similar programs. The service continues to expand locally as well. New programs have been added and the meals-on-wheels program started recently in Kinmount. In her speech, Mrs. McCann commended the volunteers for their dedication and expressed the belief that people offer help "because most of all they care about each other."

Weaning program announced -Ag report-

The Victoria County Weaning Weight program is underway for 1984.

This program is sponsored by the Victoria Cattlemen's Association as a service to cow-calf producers in Victoria and Haliburton Counties. A set of portable scales is owned by the Association, and these scales are used to weigh the calves of participating farmers at weaning time.

The actual calf weights are then "adjusted" to get a 200 day weight which can be used to accurately compare one calf and its mother with the next one. This helps the beef producer identify those cows which produce small calves, and select replacement heifers which are above average in growth.

The Victoria County Weaning Weight program started in 1983 with 24 farmers participating. A number of new participants have already signed up for 1984 but more can be accommodated. Participation is open to any member of the Victoria Cattlemen's Association or the Haliburton County Farmers' Association.

With calving underway on many beef farms, now is the time to get involved for this year. Participants need to have their cows and calves identified, preferably with ear tags, and the exact date of birth of each calf is recorded.

Further information on the program is available from the Lindsay Agricultural Office.

Swine sale successful

The Kawartha Klassic Swine Sale held in Lindsay recently was very successful. 41 head of quality breeding pigs from several producers in Victoria County were sold in the sale for an average price of $285.00.

Several buyers from outside Victoria County were in attendance with a number of animals going to the Grafton and Mount Albert areas.

The boars in the sale averaged $338.00; the bred gilts averaged $306.00; and the open gilts averaged $216.00.

Plans are already underway for the fall sale on Saturday, September 29, at the Lindsay Central Exhibition Grounds.

The best little warehouse in Haliburton!!

The skirl of bagpipes filled the air in Haliburton Village Sunday as members of the District F Royal Canadian Legion paraded to the cenotaph. The parade capped a weekend convention which attracted three hundred and forty delegates.

340 attend legion convention

Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion hosted the District F Convention on the weekend attracting 340 delegates from 54 branches. This was the first time the convention was held in Haliburton.

During the weekend district officers presented reports and several seminars were held.

On Saturday evening the delegates gathered for a banquet at the Legion Hall. The keynote speaker, Horace Tudhope, the Third Vice President of the Provincial Command, expressed the need to improve communications between the veterans and the associate members who make up as much as 30% of the membership in the branches.

"We must bridge the generation gap and blend in the old and the new to create one solid unit" he stated, adding, "We must look closely at the future; we have to be concerned; we have to listen to the younger members". "Another great concern is the use of our community cenotaphs by radical groups, they are using our places of remembrance to demonstrate."

He was equally critical of groups who use the poppy as a symbol of war. "We are for peace, not war."

He concluded by saying "Keep our poppy a symbol of peace; we must keep our promise to our fallen comrades; we must keep our promises to ourselves to continue the work, we must pass the torch on to our new members."

Tree planting was a family activity Saturday morning as Minden and area scouts, cubs and Beavers participated in the annual Trees for Canada project. The local organization planted 2000 trees.

Arena plexi-glass fund started

A special fund has been started to finance the purchase of plexi-glass to enclose the ice surface at the Minden arena. The fund got off to a major start recently, when the Minden Kinsmen Club donated $2000 for the effort.

According to a spokesman for the Recreation Committee, it is hoped that other groups and individuals would add to the fund. A separate account has been established for the money.

The committee spokesman said that the installation of the protective glass could not be undertaken by the committee without public assistance. It is estimated the cost of installing plexi-glass around the entire ice surface would be $25,000.

Some funds from this special account have been used to install plexi-glass in certain sections, notably around the penalty boxes and time keeper's station.

Those wishing to make a donation to the fund can contact the municipal clerk, Elinor Burke, at the municipal office.

The Easter holiday is over here at Hyland Crest. Some went to dinner, some had special guests. I was lucky I guess you could say, a winner, I had my children with me for both lunch and dinner. In the chapel service Sunday night we had no one with music to play. We had a nice service anyway. We had a tape of a lady singing which we enjoyed very much. Rev. John gave the Easter message, he really has the touch.

Our girls all passed the nursery course they were all taking this year. Some of the things they taught them sound really queer. They say there is an anvil and hammer inside your inner ear. No wonder we can sometimes hear a ringing loud and clear.

Our sympathy from all here to nurse Bowron for the loss of her brother.

The ladies working in the craft room Monday afternoon. Some knitting afghans, others knitting socks. Mary Oliver hemming a quilt which was undertaking, but will be ready soon.

Barbara Carpenter got her new granddaughter which she was hoping for. Congratulations mother, daughter and grandmother, we would like to say.

Doris has taken off for a week's holiday and Linda has taken over while Doris is away. Movies Monday night were Angus, Vegetable Gardening and Kill Men County.

Tuesday morning Rev. John Phillips of Haliburton Anglican Church along with his assistant Julie Kennedy. They had a very interesting service in the chapel. Quite a number there. Julie read the scripture lesson, also led in prayer. Rev. Phillips said "many have a cross to bear, on the cross were our sins, Jesus life he gave, but rose again victorious over the grave."

Tuesday afternoon playing the quiz game down in the auditorium. When the game was over the B team had won. Tuesday night Fred Ballard and Gordon Ruttle entertained us grand, playing "Shall we gather at the river" to "McNamara's Band."

Wednesday night Doris Robertson, the Hyland bus did run. Taking some of the Hyland Crest residents to Haliburton, to the Festival of Fun. They said it was a real good show, making some feel badly that more of us didn't go.

For the tea party Thursday afternoon the Carnarvon U.C.W. ladies held sway. Barbara Trociewz said she was wearing an Anglican hat Saturday but she was wearing a United Church hat today. They really served a lovely lunch with all kinds of treats and sandwiches galore, beautiful birthday cake, how could we ask for more? We thank them for coming with Gordon Ruttle playing the spoons, John Stewart the piano, myself the harmonica, we played some lively tunes.

We would like to thank those who came Thursday night to call the bingo games - sorry we didn't get your names.

Friday some of our residents boarded the Hyland bus again, this time to a nice dinner at PineStone Inn. Then our entertainers came again Friday afternoon. Norma to play the music, Grace to lead us in our singalong, read some humourous numbers and sang some interesting tunes.

Well readers, I hope everything with you is going all right and don't forget to put your clocks on one hour Saturday night.

Just let me be a candle
That God has set below,
To give a little added light
On roads that others go.
Oh may my weak and tiny flame,
My faint and feeble spark,
Help light the pathway of someone,
Who stumbles in the dark.

Did you know?

by Bambi Gilder

Did you know ... that the Ontario Women's Directorate offers a booklet entitled "Job Search" which has been prepared for women who are planning to enter the workforce for the first time or return to the workforce after an extended absence?

Whatever your reasons for seeking a job, you will need a plan of action that will involve taking a series of steps. The purpose of this booklet is to help you work through these steps that will meet your own individual needs.

It provides information on self-assessment, family adjustments, training opportunities, job offers and examples of standard application forms, resume and interviews.

To obtain this booklet and more information regarding this and many other subjects, why not drop in or give us a call at 457-2733.

Your County Information Centre is located in the Drag River Municipal Building (across from Emmerson Lumber) in Haliburton, and we are open Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

And remember, you will never know the answer, until you ask the question.

WOW!! Wasn't that some wind on Monday evening? Lots of trees down and we saw many shingles and tiles flying through the air. Thank Goodness no one was injured. We must give a big hand to our hydro boys who were out in that gale renewing and repairing power lines. We are very lucky to have such a great crew - our hats are off to you lads (and not just because of the wind) - the short time we were without power was a credit to you all. Thanks!

Got a call from our old friend Irene Moore and she was telling us that she had heard and seen three huge flocks of geese flying over honking madly on Friday. Surely another sign that summer is on the way!

Dolly Parton did not go to Rotary Bingo last week, but a super crowd of Minden area bingo players did and Dolly missed a great evening out. Freda Stacey was the big winner of $100 at Nevada and Vivian Seath was the lucky Jackpot winner. It was good to see more young people out enjoying the games and Jill Hamilton was winner of the mystery door prize. The next Rotary bingo is slated for May 29th, so plan now to attend and bring a friend.

May 7-12 has once again been designated Nurses Week in Ontario. They are celebrating this event by holding blood pressure clinics at Minden Drug Store on Monday, May 7 from 2-4 p.m. and at the Toronto-Dominion Bank in Minden on Friday, May 11 from 2-4 p.m. They are also holding a draw for a health food basket and tickets are available from the nurses. The motto for Nurses Week is "Nurses Care" - we should let them know that we appreciate their care very much - "People care too Nurses!"

It was a quick hello and goodbye for Autumn Davis last week when she returned from a two week visit to Scotland and England. She tells us she had a great time and would love to visit Britain again. While there she spent some time with Karen McCreadie of Blantyre, Scotland and Hugh Taylor of Reading, England. Autumn left Minden again Sunday to take up her new position as production manager at a Fergus newspaper. Good luck in your new home and your new job Autumn. You'll be missed around Minden.

It is so nice to see the work coming along again on the sidewalks. Winter wreaked havoc on the bricks. You're doing a grand job boys - keep it up!

The following poem was written and submitted by our friend Yvonne Guida. She tells us it is for all those who are young in heart - so that could be any or all of us.

Petrouchka
(Based on Stravinsky's Ballet)

He dangled limply on a string
A puppet set apart,
A foolish, poor and silly thing
Made by the world of art.
From wood and cloth and glue and twine
With gaily painted face,
And brightly coloured ribbons too -
And shiny jewels and lace.
But fate composed a special play
For him the leading part,
The strangest thing that no one knew
This puppet had a heart!
A cruel magician owned him
And one day he gave him life,
And set him free into the world
With all its woes and strife.
And to this little puppet - the one destined for fame -
He gave the name Petrouchka, a funny sounding name.
But then a swarthy Moor with sword
Was brought to join the play,
A lovely ballerina too, with such a winning way.
Our hero promptly lost his heart
Right to the little dancer,
He ardently declared his love,
To him she gave no answer.
But they were happy for awhile
And shared a life of bliss,
Petrouchka felt he'd never known
Such happiness as this.
But then the Moor declared, "She's mine!"
And tried to intervene,
Petrouchka flew into a rage
There was a frightful scene.
But just as quick as it began
The fearsome fight was o'er
And the hapless Petrouchka
Crumpled dead upon the floor!
The little ballerina screamed
And faltered where she stood,
The magic lost its spell
And once again she turned to wood!
The diabolic Moor was foiled
And ran off in a rage
And poor Petrouchka and his love
Were left upon the stage.
But now his ghost forlornly flies
Above that stage each night.
He searches on unceasingly
And softly moans his plight,
He's looking for the love he lost
And for the life of bliss,
Now, tell me, have you ever heard
A sadder tale than this?

A gorilla walked into a drugstore, and ordered a sundae, and put down a ten dollar bill to pay for it. The clerk though, "What would a gorilla know about money?" So he handed back only a dollar in change. As he did he said, "You know, we don't get many gorillas in here." "No wonder," answered the gorilla, "at nine dollars a sundae".

IN MEMORIAM

WARBURTON: In loving memory of Donna Lynn who passed away April 29, 1965.
It is so strange that those we need,
And those we love the best,
Are just the ones God calls away,
And takes them home to rest.
But everytime we think of Donna,
We seem to hear God say,
Have faith and trust in my promise,
And you'll meet again someday.
Ever remembered by Mom and Dad
